REPEAL THE TAX.

At a recent meeting of the New Castle Board of Trade a resolution was introduced by one of the members authorizing the body to petition Congress to remove the present taxation and restrictions governing the sale of colored oleomargarine in order that it might not only be bought at a price within the reach of all but would have its effect in reducing the price of butter, now controlled in a large measure by the Creamery Butter Trust.

In offering his statement the member said that boards of trade, labor unions and other organizations in all parts of the country are petitioning Congress to act in this matter and that the New Castle board should get also behind the movement.
The present tax of 10 cents a pound makes good oleomargarine almost as expensive as real butter and keeps the price of that much needed commodity beyond the reach of the poor man.

Oleomargarine is taxed and the sale restricted by both National and State legislation for no other purpose except to discourage the use of the product by the people. It is a perfectly legitimate and wholesome food product, and to increase the cost in order to enable the butter trust to make big profits is an act of injustice to hundreds of thousands of poor people who are made to pay an unnecessary high price for an important food product. Oleomargarine will sell on its merits any day, and there is no occasion to tax it in order to prevent its substitution for butter.

GOOD FOR THIS COUNTY

The new Pittsburg school board, appointed by the courts instead of being elected by the people, has already evidenced its independence of political alliances and obligations by advertising for bids from the various banking concerns for the deposits of the school funds. The banks that will pay the highest rate of interest for handling the funds and at the same time give undoubted security, will be awarded the deposits. This is simply doing business on sound business principles.

During the campaign it was announced by some of the candidates for treasurer that if nominated and elected they would deposit the county funds with the banks paying the highest rate of interest on idle funds.
Whether this policy will be carried out remains to be seen, but one thing appears certain and that is that the banks will have to pay something for idle funds where heretofore nothing has been paid. Advertising for bids is good business, but as the deposit of public funds has always constituted a form of graft that has generally prevailed, it is a hard matter to change the system so long as politics figures more than business in the fiscal management of public affairs.

The action of the new Pittsburg school board is possible because their board was chosen for business rather than to serve political ends.

Would the law permit, it is possible that the office of county treasurer could be done away with altogether. Almost any of the larger banks would be willing to give bonds and perform the office of county treasurer free of cost to the county for the benefits accruing in handling the funds. The compensation of the treasurer costs the county perhaps $8,000 a year and any bank could get the work done for about one-eighth of that sum, give bonds besides and still make a big profit in handling the funds. Charleroi adopts this method in handling the borough and school funds, and no commission is paid for performing the function of treasurer for either district.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A group of men the other day discussed school matters and other topics along the line of educational training, and marveled on how little the average man really retained in after years when he had no occasion to apply the various mathematical calculations in which he was trained while at school.

"For instance," said one man, "I was asked once at what point one would cut a board in two that was one inch thick, twelve inches wide at
one inch thick, twelve inches wide at inches at the other end so that each part would contain exactly the same contents as the other. I gured and figured, but could n't get solution."

"I hunted up my old Dean's Arithmetic, and brushed up on rules and demonstrations. Finally I went to an old carpenter who, although he was slimly educated and uncultured, was nevertheless a good workman and could plan and build a house equal to the best of them. I stated the case to him and he said:

"Why, you blamed fool, balance the board across something and then saw it in two at the balancing point."

"The simple method of solving the problem once more convinced me that education is not all confined to what one learns from the text books."

Local basketball enthusiasts were treated to an innovation in systematic rooting on last Saturday night when a crowd of 40 Homestead business men and citizens came here as a tribute to Capt. Jack Adams of the Charleroi five. No sooner had the Homestead party gotten inside the rink than it began rooting. A song would follow a yell like those for colleges.

Finally one ambitious spirit of the crowd found outlet for his delight in the shouted query:

"What's the capital of Pennsylvania?"

Quickly came the response from the other members of the party.

"Charleroi."

"Where's the Governor from?" another called.

"Charleroi?" was the answer sharp and decisive.

"Where is Capt. Jack?"

"Charleroi."

"What made his hair gray?"

"Homestead."

Sweet sea lavender child of the mist,
Born of the sea and more,
Who would dream such an exquisite
queen.

Dwelt on the sailing dream—
Still, in a robe of delicate sheen,
E'en though autumn is near.

Far from the haunts of men, and things,
Swept by wind and tide,
Leaved by the waves at morn and eve,
When the sea makes river wide;
Yet bewitchingly fair—in your mauve and
gray.

Meet a merman's bride.

Even if ruthless afar I bear
From your shell-strewn shore away,
Lasting your charm; in the city's moff.
For many and many a day:
I shall see in your eyes the mists, and
more.

Farmers' Sons in University.
Some interesting facts, relating to the occupations of parents of students in the university, are disclosed in the annual report of President Thompson, of Ohio State university, to the governor. In point of numbers the children of farmers lead with 567 enrolled. Second in the list are the merchants, with 158. Then come officers of private corporations and salesmen, with one hundred each.
Following these are represented many other occupations.

CONFIDENCE

We Back up Our Statement with
Our Personal Reputation
and Money

We are so positive that we can relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine free of all cost if we fail.

We think that it is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Cathartics may do much harm. They may cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels, and make constipation more chronic.

Constipation is often accompanied and may be caused by weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or colon. To expect a cure you must therefore tone up and strengthen those parts and restore them to healthier activity.

The discovery of the active principle of our remedy involved the labor of skillful research chemists.
This remedy produces results such as are expected from the best of the best-known intestinal tonics, and it is particularly prompt in its results.

DANDRUFF AND ITCH- ING-SCALP YIELD TO ZEMO TREATMENT

Why should you continue to experiment with salves, greasy lotions and fancy hair dressings trying to rid your scalp of germ life. They can't do it because they cannot penetrate to the seat of the trouble and draw the germ life to the surface of the scalp and destroy it.

Why not try a PROVEN REMEDY? One that will do this. We have a remedy that will rid the scalp of germ life and in this way will cure DANDRUFF AND ITCHING SCALP.

This remedy is ZEMO (ANTISEPTIC SOAP) and one application of ZEMO will entirely rid the scalp of dandruff and scurf. Do not hesitate, but get a bottle of ZEMO today. It acts on a new principle and will do exactly what we claim for it.

An Englishman's Report.

He had just arrived from old England and his friend, a prominent clubman, was showing him the city. In our suburbs they noticed a neatly fixed-up candy store, which greatly surprised the stranger, and he inquired how that could be made to pay. The clubman remarked in answer:

"Why, I don't believe he can make his salt there."

The Englishman seemed bewildered, and adjusting his monocle, said: "How strange! Do you expect a man in this country to make salt in a sweet shop?"

HELPFUL HINTS.

A nice little arrangement to use for a birthday cake is the cover of a candy pail. Have holes bored around the board deep enough to hold a candle, stain it any desired color and rest the cake-in the center with the candles around it. Of course many more holes may be bored than needed, as the candles used need not fill each place. In this manner each member of a large family has the use of the candle board. It is safe, pretty and economical.

To loosen glass stoppers, pour a little oil around the mouth of the bottle and let it stand an hour of two; if the stopper is not loosened then, set the bottle in a dish of warm water. When hot remove and gently tap the stopper on either side and it will come out easily.

To wash chamois gloves:—These gloves are serviceable, and if kept clean are the most satisfactory of gloves. When washing them, put on the hands and wash as you would your hands, rubbing on soap and rinsing all of it off, then wipe as dry as possible on a towel and leave for a few moments on the hands to dry. Pin up in an open window or hang in the air to dry. Do not lay them on a radiator or register to dry.

When you have the tough end of a steak, cut it into cubes and pour over water to cover. Add a small piece of carrot and onion and a potato or two and cook until tender. If the meat has not been previously cooked, brown it in a little hot oil.

Keep a well-corked bottle of chloroform to use in removing spots from delicate fabrics. Rub briskly and there will be no ring to mark the spot.

When a little onion juice is desired in any food, cut off a slice of unpeeled onion and press against the groove, working with a rotary motion. The juice will flow down the groove.

GOOD LOOKS IN MIDDLE LIFE

Proper Selection and Assimilation of Food Necessary If One Would Retain Beauty.

Good looks are almost entirely dependent on the fuel that goes into the furnace with middle age, yet vain woman is so contrary that she often eats a great deal more at this time than in youth. And since the teeth are generally much impaired by now, mastication, upon which everything depends, is poor and assimilation nil. The unhappy woman who goes on eating four chops and two huge potatoes for lunch—and more things maybe—is simply fitting herself for a coffin, or for dull eyes, a pasty complexion, a big abdomen, a slow step, a round back and so on. Let her never forget the hint—everything in looks and health at middle age depends mainly on food. Just what it should be the eater and her physician must decide, for it is impossible to prescribe one diet for the many. It is only necessary to see that the food is digestible, nourishing and palatable, and that its quantity is not too big. However, doctors prescribe milk, cream, fresh vegetables and fruit and green salads among the foods for health and beauty purposes; but there is one diet for the fat and another for the lean.

The middle-aged woman must learn to breathe deeply if she wishes to prolong her life and keep the look of vigor which is the basis of all good looks; she must likewise drink plenty of fresh water, sit and sleep in well-ventilated rooms and exercise daily in the open air. The break down in health that comes so often at this time is from unhygienic and lazy habits.

EYES NEED MUCH ATTENTION

Their Beauty Marred and Sight Hurt by Abuses to Which So Many Are Prone.

A good deal of harm is done the beauty of the eyes by reading at night with a bad light, young girls being especially addicted to this practice. In this way, the need of glasses comes far earlier than it should, and if the strain on the eyes is kept up in any manner, long before middle age there will be crowsfeet, a bad forehead, frown and other blights, while the girl is bound to suffer much during youth with granulations. If a girl has to study at night, her reading lamp should be placed so that the light will fall over her left shoulder, with the shade in a deep green and low enough to hide the blaze of the lamp. Then washing the ball night and morning with salt and water put in an eyecup is strengthening and beautifying to much used eyes, while a solution of boric acid—a teaspoonful of the granules put in a glass of boiled water—if used in the same manner twice a day, would be an antiseptic precaution against various infectious eye troubles.

Where the eye muscles show a sign of tightening—an aching sense of strain denotes this—rubbing the lids at night with vaseline will help to limber them, but with this no pressure must be put on the ball itself, as it is very easy to flatten it, and this injures the sight.

DRESS FOR YOUNG GIRL

Blue and white striped zephyr is used for this simple girlish dress. The bodice has a deep yoke of plain blue zephyr, edged with white, the turn-up cuffs being of the same. The skirt has a band of blue at the foot headed with white.

Materials required: 4 yards stripe 28 inches wide, $\frac{1}{2}$ yard plain zephyr, $\frac{1}{2}$ yard white.

The Peaked Crown.

The majority of the new midwinter hats have high crowns that grow to a point. These were brought out during the Mexican war and were made of white felt, of the basket straw and of Tagal and chip.

The loosely woven basket straw ones in different colors, with the high crown and the rolling brim, are sold at absurdly small prices and used by young girls for vacation days out of fashionable places.

Fay Brown's Decision

By Rosalie G. Mendel

"Don't let's talk about it any more, John," pleaded Fay Brown. "It's just like going around in a circle without reaching any conclusion."

"I like you tremendously. I am even fond of you; but I don't know and never can love you in the way I must love the man I marry. Consider this final, John—there's no more to be said on the subject."

"It's easy enough to say 'consider this final.' I'll do no such thing; I'll continue asking until you accept from sheer weariness of listening to my proposals. May be you love me and don't know it yourself—such things have happened before."

After a short silence, John said: "Tell me, is there someone else?"

"No; how could there be when you monopolize about eight of my evenings a week?"

"Well, I'm glad to know I have a clean field," said John.

"A lot of good it will do you," laughed Fay.

"Let's be serious, dear heart," said John. "In a month I return to Panama to be gone for three years. When I left there to come home for my vacation two months ago, I hoped and prayed that you would go back with me. Our congenial correspondence, your inspiring letters, our beautiful friendship of four years' duration made me feel that we were made for each other. Just as if it were written in the book—and now you say nothing but 'No, no, no.'

"Is it the distance that frightens you, girl?"

"No; decidedly not," promptly answered Fay. "Love knows no dis-

Stubbish Colds May Lead to Consumption

Did you ever have a cold that would not let go; a cough that persisted, prevented sleep, and made waking hours miserable? Eckman's Alternative is the proper remedy for such cases. A simple medicine may be effective where it is only a tickling in the throat; but when your chest is sore and simple remedies don't answer—then take Eckman's Alternative. Neglect often leads to more serious trouble; case in point follows: "I got the Cough in Fall, Pa. Gentlemen, in July, 1900, first noticed the conditions that showed I had Consumption. I lost weight rapidly; had a hollow cough, hemorrhages and very severe night sweats. My brother recommended Eckman's Alternative. In the Fall of 1906 I began to take it. At that time I was perfectly well and robust. My appetite is good and my weight has increased from 110 to 140 pounds. Not a trace of my old trouble remains. I will gladly express the merits of this medicine to anyone."

The Daily Newspaper

All experienced advertisers acknowledge that familiarity by the public with the name and nature of their wares is one of the first essentials of success. To attain this familiarity the eye must be appealed to, and appealed to repeatedly. Sporadic appeals are as useless as a bucket of water thrown on an arid plain. What the eye sees the mind holds, but they must see it daily--and the daily newspaper offers the only stable opportunity for the direct aim at the vision. The story told in the daily newspaper, day after day, is impressed on the mind. This impression is a valuable factor.

The Charleroi Mail reaches practically every English reading household in Charleroi, besides circulating up and down the river. At no time in the history of Charleroi has any Charleroi newspaper been so widely or eagerly read than is the Mail at the present time.

Over 7,000 persons read the Charleroi Mail every day

Can an advertiser by any other means reach the eyes and ears of so many people in a single day?

What would the bill distributor charge you for distributing 8,000 bill a day? Compare the cost of the bills and the distribution with the cost of an advertisement in the Mail.

Hamilton's Midnight Oil. Men who serve their countries faithfully have, in many instances, been forced thereby to neglect their own and their families' interests; or, at least, their energies are severely overtaxed. Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, in his biography of his grandfather, Alexander Hamilton, gives a celebrated Frenchman's observation.

His studious tastes and habits drew forth the famous comment of Talleyrand, who one night passed Hamilton's window and found him at work. He wrote later:

After death may I enter the body of a slave. May I suffer the harshest treatments during all time in years as numerous as the sands of all the seas. May I be born deaf, dumb and blind and afflicted with dire maladies. May I also be thrown into Narok—the lower regions—and tortured by Pres Yam, if I break this oath."

JUST NOTES

In Adams and J. Brown Charleroi has two of the best forwards that ever shot a basket. Their work was more than clever Monday night.

Dolin, the Charleroi center is young, but he is developing into one of the greatest centers in the business and is mighty popular with the fans.

And speaking of basketball players on the Charleroi team, the guards Allie Brown, a big handsome fellow, and Peiffer, not quite so big but nearly as handsome, presents a formidable appearance. Taken in all the Charleroi team is about as evenly balanced as any on the Central League floor and Adams is injecting a lot of spirit into his players.

That man Fogarty of Johnstown can claim honors for having a fast team. In our humble opinion he has fully as good a five as Andy Sears. However the Charleroi five is just as good as the best and that's all we care about.

One place where the shoe pinches is in the fact that other towns get the advantage of a lower rate. In Cincinnati, where a fight has been waged and the light problem has been brought down to a science, the rates are lower according to statistics published in the Municipal Journal for a similar kind of lights. For overhead arcs enclosed $50 is paid and Tungstens are rated at $13 per light, overhead. It is claimed that it is easier to light a large town than a small one and that the rates should be larger in the small towns. A business man quotes the statement from the Municipal Law Reporter that: McSherrytown, St. Marys, Indiana, East Pittsburg, Tower City, and others in this state are paying less than $60 per annum for their lights.

FIGHT MAY DEVELOP ON STREET LIGHT PROBLEM

Claimed Rates of Electric Company Are Too High

EXPERIMENT WITH GAS

May Prove Good Innovation
Rates Lower in Other Towns and Cities

Prospects of a fight similar to that engaged in some time ago at Monongahela over the light problem have local taxpayers and citizens aroused. The fight, if it is really developed, will be centered on the West Penn Electric company, which is seeking a new contract for lighting the borough under changes enumerated in an agreement presented to council at their last meeting. At the same time the Welsbach Gas Lighting company of Pittsburgh, is trying to secure the contract and have erected two lights as experiments on two corners. Tonight council will meet but it may not take up the light question.

A faint suggestion of trouble occurred at the last council meeting when the West Penn Electric company's agreement was presented for signature. It was claimed by some members of council that the rates were too high and Harry McCabe, a representative of the Welsbach people, was told he could put up two lights as experiments on two street corners. He was given the impression that if the gas light proved to be what he represented the contract might go to his firm.

It was proposed to give the West Penn Electric company a five year's extension to the present contract, with the number of arc lights decreased and Tungsten lights of a sufficient candle power substituted. Now the borough is getting lighting at the annual rate of $70 per arc light for the first 40 arcs and $60 for each remaining arc. Then there are several Tungsten lights and smaller lights making the borough pay approximately $5,207 annually for its lighting.

As a saving the use of Tungstens was suggested for the hill district and experimented with favorably. It was agreed that 53 1-2 arcs would be needed and at least 48 Tungstens. In their contract the West Penn Electric company asked for the annual rate on all arcs of $70 each, and on all Tungstens at the annual rate of $24 each. This would mean an approximate annual lighting expense of $4,897.

When the Welsbach Gas Lighting company presented their proposition they said they would light the town at the rate of $20 a light if 60 lights were used. This proposition led to an investigation and it was learned that in other towns the rate of lighting is cheaper. By the rate the gas company gives the town could have practically 245 lights or more than double the number to be secured for

CRIMINAL COURT BUSY

End Brought to Homicide Case From California by Defendant Pleading Guilty

Homicide cases occupied both courts of the criminal session at Washington Monday. Before Judge McIlvaine in court room No. 1 appeared Paul Aden and Alexander Heido, charged with killing Andrew Ambrush in a drunken fight at Daisytown, near California last June. The trial was cut short by Heido pleading guilty to manslaughter, and exonerating his companion. Heido was sentenced to an indeterminate sentence of from three to 12 years in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $1 and costs. Aden was released.

George Mortosko, charged with killing Tonia Perniach in a drunken fight at Weaver, small mining town near Bentleyville was on trial before Judge Taylor in court No. 2. It is stated that the Commonwealth is not trying to secure a first degree verdict, but will be satisfied with a second degree conviction. Two alleged accessories in the case, Thos. Gardich and Joe Ready, were discharged for lack of evidence.

Clement Dargosh of Charleroi, who was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of murdering Walter Pistane at Riverview October 7, was in court Monday in order that counsel might be appointed to defend him. Dargosh had no money to employ a lawyer and the court appointed Attorney W. R. Dennison to defend him. Tony Saross of Raccoon plead guilty of the charge of assaulting John A. Carroll, a fire boss in the mine at that place. The court sentenced Saross to pay a fine of $1 and costs and serve 30 days in jail.

William Koprivich of Black Diamond entered a plea of guilty of selling liquor illegally. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $550 and costs, and serve three months and 20 days in the county jail.

REPEAL THE TAX.

At a recent meeting of the New Castle Board of Trade a resolution was introduced by one of the members authorizing the body to petition Congress to remove the present taxation and restrictions governing the sale of colored oleomargarine in order that it might not only be bought at a price within the reach of all but would have its effect in reducing the price of butter, now controlled in a large measure by the Creamery Butter Trust.

In offering his statement the member said that boards of trade, labor unions and other organizations in all parts of the country are petitioning Congress to act in this matter and that the New Castle board should get also behind the movement. The present tax of 10 cents a pound makes good oleomargarine almost as expensive as real butter and keeps the price of that much needed commodity beyond the reach of the poor man.

Oleomargarine is taxed and the sale restricted by both National and State legislation for no other purpose except to discourage the use of the product by the people. It is a perfectly legitimate and wholesome food product, and to increase the cost in order to enable the butter trust to make big profits is an act of injustice to hundreds of thousands of poor people who are made to pay an unnecessary high price for an important food product. Oleomargarine will sell on its merits any day, and there is no occasion to tax it in order to prevent its substitution for butter.

GOOD FOR THIS COUNTY

The new Pittsburg school board, appointed by the courts instead of being elected by the people, has already evidenced its independence of political alliances and obligations by advertising for bids from the various banking concerns for the deposits of the school funds. The banks that will pay the highest rate of interest for handling the funds and at the same time give undoubted security, will be awarded the deposits. This is simply doing business on sound business principles.

During the campaign it was announced by some of the candidates for treasurer that if nominated and elected they would deposit the county funds with the banks paying the highest rate of interest on idle funds. Whether this policy will be carried out remains to be seen, but one thing appears certain and that is that the banks will have to pay something for idle funds where heretofore nothing has been paid. Advertising for bids is good business, but as the deposit of public funds has always constituted a form of graft that has generally prevailed. It is a hard matter to change the system so long as politics figures more than business in the fiscal management of public affairs. The action of the new Pittsburg school board is possible because their board was chosen for business rather than to serve political ends.

Would the law permit, it is possible that the office of county treasurer could be done away with altogether. Almost any of the larger banks would be willing to give bonds and perform the office of county treasurer free of cost to the county for the benefits accruing in handling the funds. The compensation of the treasurer costs the county perhaps $8,000 a year and any bank could get the work done for about one-eighth of that sum, give bonds besides and still make a big profit in handling the funds. Charleroi adopts this method in handling the borough and school funds, and no commission is paid for performing the function of treasurer for either district.

A group of men the other day discussing school matters and other topics along the line of educational training, and marveled on how little the average man really retained in after years when he had no occasion to apply the various mathematical calculations in which he was trained while at school.

"For instance," said one man, "I was asked once at what point one would cut a board in two that was one inch thick, twelve inches wide at one inch thick, twelve inches wide at inches at the other end so that each part would contain exactly the same contents as the other. I gured and figured, but could not get a solution."

"I hunted up my old Dean's Arithmetic, and brushed up on rules and demonstrations. Finally I went to an old carpenter who, although he was slimly educated and uncultured, was nevertheless a good workman and could plan and build a house equal to the best of them. I stated the case to him and he said:

"Why, you blamed fool, balance the board across something and then saw it in two at the balancing point."

"The simple method of solving the problem once more convinced me that education is not all confined to what one learns from the text books."

Local basketball enthusiasts were treated to an innovation in systematic rooting on last Saturday night when a crowd of 40 Homestead business men and citizens came here as a tribute to Capt. Jack Adams of the Charleroi five. No sooner had the Homestead party gotten inside the rink than it began rooting. A song would follow a yell like those for colleges.

Finally one ambitious spirit of the crowd found outlet for his delight in the shouted query:

"What's the capital of Pennsylvania?"

Quickly came the response from the other members of the party.

"Charleroi."

"Where's the Governor from?" another called.

"Charleroi?" was the answer sharp and decisive.

"Where's Capt. Jack?"

"Charleroi."

"What made his hair gray?"

"Homestead."

Sea Lavender.
Sweet sea lavender, child of the mist,
Born of the sea and mere,
Who would dream such an exquisite
queen.

Dwell on the salting dream—

Still, in a robe of delicate sheen,
E'en though autumn is near.

Far from the haunts of men, and things,
Swept by wind and tide.

Lashed by the waves at morn and eve,
When the sea makes river wide:

Yet bewitchingly fair—in your mauve and
gray.

Meet for a merman's bride.

Even if ruthless afar I bear
From your shell-strewn shore away.

Lasting your charm: in the city's morn,

For many and many a day;

I shall see in your eyes the mists, and
more.

The sea and salting gray.

Farmers' Sons in University.
Some interesting facts, relating to the occupations of parents of students in the university, are disclosed in the annual report of President Thompson, Ohio State university, to the governor. In point of numbers the children of farmers lead with 567 enrolled. Second in the list are the merchants, with 158. Then come officers of private corporations and salesmen, with one hundred each. Following these are represented many other occupations.

Call it anything you like, it is nevertheless a trust probe.

Jobless thespians complained at a banquet in New York of the falling off of the theatrical business. Perhaps the reason is that people like something new presented in a new way oftener than they get it.

Just as sure as they discover some way of saving miners from mine fatalities, a new kind of death-dealing method is presented.

It seems as though the ambitious young player should stand a fair chance on first base for most any team.

This aviating business has brought one ill result, to say nothing of others, that is terrible to comprehend. It is "aviator's disease."

Scientists will later probably announce the exact kind of germ which accompanies it.

CONFIDENCE

We Back up Our Statement with
Our Personal Reputation
and Money

We are so positive that we can relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine free of all cost if we fail.

We think that it is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Cathartics may do much harm. They may cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels, and make constipation more chronic.

Constipation is often accompanied and may be caused by weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or colon. To expect a cure you must therefore tone up and strengthen those parts and restore them to healthier activity.

The discovery of the active principle of our remedy involved the labor of skillful research chemists. This remedy produces results such as are expected from the best of the best-known intestinal tonics, and it is particularly prompt in its results.

We want you to try Rexall Ordinaries on our guarantee. They are exceedingly pleasant to take and are ideal for children. They apparently act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels, having, it would seem, a neutral action on other organs or glands. They do not purge or cause inconvenience. If they do not positively cure chronic or habitual constipation and thus relieve the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, your money will be refunded. Try Rexall Ordinaries at our risk. Three sizes of packages, 10c, 25c, and 50c. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store.—The Rexal Store, Carroll's Drug Store, 623 Fallowfield avenue, Charleroi.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

First a man loses his money at cards, then his temper.

When a man isn't afraid of the cook he's taking his meals in a restaurant.

Keeping out of jail can make some men think they are honest.

The reason children are so noisy is they might be so attractive if they weren't.

A man seems to run out of sentimental pet names for the girl he marries her.

What would be the use of a bad temper to a man if he didn't have a family to vent it on?

A girl never gets tired of dancing so that she can always get tired of helping her mother.

Even when a woman gets to be a grandmother she knows it isn't on account of her years.

What makes a man specially proud of himself is his delusion that his fellow citizens are.

It's the way of a girl to be able to look pretty to the man she likes, whether she is or not.

The higher the opinion you have of yourself the better it would be for you if some of it were deserved.

There's a lot more praying by people for things they want to have than giving thanks for things they have already.

The reason a man wants to do so much for the girl to whom he's engaged is he won't after they are married.

The Mother of Clubs.

Mrs. Caroline Severance, who is called the mother of clubs, celebrated her 91st birthday recently in her home in Los Angeles. She is quite up to date in every way and laughs at the anti-suffragists. She says she remembers a Boston man telling her that once women were not even allowed to attend lectures. She believes in co-operative housekeeping and she thinks that factories should be outside the limits of cities.

Call it anything you like, it is nevertheless a trust probe.

DANDRUFF AND ITCH- ING SCALP YIELD TO ZEMO TREATMENT

Why should you continue to experiment with salves, greasy lotions and fancy hair dressings trying to rid your scalp of germ life. They can't do it because they cannot penetrate to the seat of the trouble and draw the germ life to the surface of the scalp and destroy it.

Why not try a PROVEN REMEDY? One that will do this. We have a remedy that will rid the scalp of germ life and in this way will cure DANDRUFF AND ITCHING SCALP.

This remedy is ZEMO (ANTISEPTIC SOAP) and one application of ZEMO will entirely rid the scalp of dandruff and scurf. Do not hesitate, but get a bottle of ZEMO today. It acts on a new principle and will do exactly what we claim for it.

An Englishman's Retort.

He had just arrived from old England and his friend, a prominent clubman, was showing him the city. In our suburbs they noticed a neatly fixed-up candy store, which greatly surprised the stranger, and he inquired how that could be made to pay. The clubman remarked in answer:

"Why, I don't believe he can make his salt there."

The Englishman seemed bewildered, and adjusting his monocle, said:

"How strange! Do you expect a man in this country to make salt in a sweet shop?"

The KITCHEN CABINET

HELPFUL HINTS.

A nice little arrangement to use for a birthday cake is the cover of a candy pail. Have holes bored around the board deep enough to hold a candle, stain it any desired color and rest the cake-in the center with the candles around it. Of course many more holes may be bored than needed, as the candles used need not fill each place. In this manner each member of a large family has the use of the candle board. It is safe, pretty and economical.

To loosen glass stoppers, pour a little oil around the mouth of the bottle and let it stand an hour or two; if the stopper is not loosened then, set the bottle in a dish of warm water. When hot remove and gently tap the stopper on either side and it will come out easily.

To wash chamois gloves: These gloves are serviceable, and if kept clean are the most satisfactory of gloves. When washing them, put on the hands and wash as you would your hands, rubbing on soap and rinsing all of it off, then wipe as dry as possible on a towel and leave for a few moments on the hands to dry. Pin up in an open window or hang in the air to dry. Do not lay them on a radiator or register to dry.

When you have the tough end of a steak, cut it into cubes and pour over water to cover. Add a small piece of carrot and onion and a potato or two and cook until tender. If the meat has not been previously cooked, brown it in a little hot suet.

Keep a well-corked bottle of chloroform to use in removing spots from delicate fabrics. Rub briskly and there will be no ring to mark the spot.

When little onion juice is desired in any food, cut off a slice of unpeeled onion and press against the groove, working with a rotary motion. The juice will flow down the groove.

GOOD LOOKS IN MIDDLE LIFE

Proper Selection and Assimilation of Food Necessary if One Would Retain Beauty.

Good looks are almost entirely dependent on the fuel that goes into the furnace with middle age, yet vain woman is so contrary that she often eats a great deal more at this time than in youth. And since the teeth are generally much impaired by now, mastication, upon which everything depends, is poor and assimilation nil.

The unhappy woman who goes on eating four chops and two huge potatoes for lunch—and more things maybe—is simply fitting herself for a coffin, or for dull eyes, a pasty complexion, a big abdomen, a slow step, a round back and so on. Let her never forget the hint—everything in looks and health at middle age depends mainly on food. Just what it should be the eater and her physician must decide, for it is impossible to prescribe one diet for the many. It is only necessary to see that the food is digestible, nourishing and palatable, and that its quantity is not too big. However, doctors prescribe milk, cream, fresh vegetables and fruit and green salads among the foods for health and beauty purposes, but there is one diet for the fat and another for the lean.

The middle-aged woman must learn to breathe deeply if she wishes to prolong her life and keep the look of vigor which is the basis of all good looks; she must likewise drink plenty of fresh water, sit and sleep in well ventilated rooms and exercise daily in the open air. The break down in health that comes so often at this time is from unhygienic and lazy habits.

EYES NEED MUCH ATTENTION

Their Beauty Marred and Sight Hurt by Abuses to Which So Many Are Prone.

A good deal of harm is done the beauty of the eyes by reading at night with a bad light, young girls being especially addicted to this practice. In this way, the need of glasses comes far earlier than it should, and if the strain on the eyes is kept up in any manner, long before middle age there will be crowsfeet, a bad forehead, brown and other blights, while the girl is bound to suffer much during youth with granulations. If a girl has to study at night, her reading lamp should be placed so that the light will fall over her left shoulder, with the shade in a deep green and low enough to hide the blaze of the lamp. Then washing the ball night and morning with salt and water put in an eyecup is strengthening and beautifying to much used eyes, while a solution of boric acid—a teaspoonful of the granules put in a glass of boiled water—if used in the same manner twice a day, would be an antiseptic precaution against various infectious eye troubles.

Where the eye muscles show a sign of tightening—an aching sense of strain denotes this—rubbing the lids at night with vaseline will help to limber them, but with this no pressure must be put on the ball itself, as it is very easy to flatten it, and this injures the sight.

DRESS FOR YOUNG GIRL

Blue and white striped zephyr is used for this simple girlish dress. The bodice has a deep yoke of plain blue zephyr, edged with white, the turn-up cuffs being of the same. The skirt has a band of blue at the foot headed with white.

Materials required: 4 yards stripe 28 inches wide; $\frac{3}{4}$ yard plain zephyr, $\frac{1}{4}$ yard white.

The Peaked Crown.

The majority of the new midsummer hats have high crowns that grow to a point. These were brought out during the Mexican war, and were made of white felt, of the "basket straw" and of Tagal and chip.

The loosely woven basket straw ones in different colors, with the high crown and the rolling brim, are sold at absurdly small prices, and used by young girls for vacation days out-of-fashionable places.

Fay Brown's Decision

By Rosalie G. Mendel

"Don't let's talk about it any more, John," pleaded Fay Brown. "It's just like going around in a circle without reaching any conclusion."

"I like you tremendously. I am even fond of you; but I don't know and never can love you in the way I must love the man I marry. Consider this final, John—there's no more to be said on the subject."

"It's easy enough to say 'consider this final.' I do not such thing; I'll continue asking until you accept from sheer weariness of listening to my proposals. May be you love me and don't know it yourself—such things have happened before."

After a short silence, John said:

"Tell me, is there someone else?"

"No; how could there be when you monopolize about eight of my evenings a week?"

"Well, I'm glad to know I have a clean field," said John.

"A lot of good it will do you," laughed Fay.

"Let's be serious, dear heart," said John. "In a month I return to Panama to be gone for three years. When I left there to come home for my vacation two months ago, I hoped and prayed that you would go back with me. Our congenial correspondence, your inspiring letters, our beautiful friendship of four years' duration, made me feel that we were made for each other. Just as if it were written in the book—and now you say nothing but 'No, no, no.'

"Is it the distance that frightens you, girl?"

"No; decidedly not," promptly answered Fay. "Love knows no dis-

JUST NOTES

In Adams and J. Brown Charleroi has two of the best forwards that ever shot a basket. Their work was more than clever Monday night

Dolin, the Charleroi center is young, but he is developing into one of the greatest centers in the business and is mighty popular with the fans.

And speaking of basketball players on the Charleroi team, the guards Allie Brown, a big handsome fellow, and Peiffer, not quite so big but nearly as handsome, presents a formidable appearance. Taken in all the Charleroi team is about as evenly balanced as any on the Central League floor and Adams is injecting a lot of spirit into his players.

That man Fogarty of Johnstown can claim honors for having a fast team. In our humble opinion he has fully as good a five as Andy Sears. However the Charleroi five is just as good as the best and that's all we care about.

One trouble found on the local floor is getting the games started promptly on time. The hour set is 8:30, which means that some of these nights some of those spectators who come at 9 o'clock won't get to see only a part of the game.

Eight-Story Fall Not Fatal. Alexander Haslett, a work on the steel frames of a modern building, while adjusting a rope on an elevator, slipped and fell eight stories through a shaft.

Death seemed certain. There was nothing between him and the brick pavement 70 feet below. Two stories down there was a board projecting. He grabbed for the board and caught it. He could not hold it, but he broke the strength of his fall for two stories. The impetus threw him into a somersault, but as he turned the fourth story he grabbed a board and again broke his fall. This happened twice in the few seconds in which he shot like a bullet past story after story. He struck the ground, but he had only a slight injury to his skull. Neither arms nor legs were broken. Philadelphia Press.

Hamilton's Midnight Oil.

Men who serve their countries faithfully have, in many instances, been forced thereby to neglect their own and their families' interests; or, at least, their energies are severely overtaxed. Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, in his biography of his grandfather, Alexander Hamilton, gives a celebrated Frenchman's observation.

His studious tastes and habits drew forth the famous comment of Talleyrand, who one night passed Hamilton's window and found him at work. He wrote later:

"I have seen a man who made the fortune of a nation laboring all night to support his family."—Youth's Companion.

Official Oath in Siam.

If any form of oath is calculated to impress one, that which is prescribed to the state officials of Siam is likely to do so. Each official has to say: "May the blood flow from my veins, may crocodiles devour me, may I be condemned to carry water to the flames of hell in vessels without bottoms. After death may I enter the body of a slave. May I suffer the harshest treatments during all time in years as numerous as the sands of all the seas. May I be reborn deaf, dumb and blind and afflicted with dire maladies. May I also be thrown into Narok—the lower regions—and tortured by fire. Yam, I'll break this oath."

the same money from the electric company

One place where the shoe pinches is in the fact that other towns get the advantage of a lower rate. In Cincinnati, where a fight has been waged and the light problem has been brought down to a science, the rates are lower according to statistics published in the Municipal Journal for a similar kind of lights. For overhead arcs enclosed $50 is paid and Tungstens are rated at $13 per light, overhead. It is claimed that it is easier to light a large town than a small one and that the rates should be larger in the small towns. A business man quotes the statement from the Municipal Law Reporter that: McSherrystown, St. Marys, Indiana, East Pittsburg, Tower City, and others in this state are paying less than $50 per annum for their lights.

There are three local boys on Penn State's football squad: Elgie Tobin, of Roscoe, Levi Lamb of California and Head Coach Edward McCleary of Allsport.

"Tillie" Dewart of California is putting up a grand game at quarter back for Pitt. He scored the first touchdown Saturday.

The Thanksgiving battle between Penn State and Pitt will be a grand one—probably a far faster exhibition than the annual Penn-Cornell struggle in Philadelphia.
